

ADAM WIGG
PROJECT ARCHITECT

QUALIFICATIONS:

Bachelor of Applied Science (Environmental Design), University of Canberra
Bachelor of Architecture, Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology
Diploma of Information Technology (Multi-media), Australian National University

Adam has diverse and wide ranging experience in the delivery of high quality design outcomes. Since completing his studies he has undertaken teaching roles at RMIT and the University of Canberra, project management roles in information technology and public art delivery and has played a key role in the design and delivery of projects ranging from single houses to urban master plans.

Specializing in the development of projects from inception to design realization, Adam's project experience has allowed him to hone his abilities to work strategically and collaboratively to draw out a sustainable vision and ambition for a project, while applying an rigorous and disciplined approach to constraints to ensure realizable outcomes.
